Safety

The Health and Safety at Work Act (1974) places a responsibility upon employers and employees to ensure the safety of ourselves and others.

Hotels must have evacuation procedures in every bedroom and coach drivers must remind customers to wear seat belts.

Advice

Customers will look to you for advice. You are considered the expert. Examples might be...

- A train manager might be asked which side to sit on for the best views
- A hotel receptionist is asked how to get to a venue by a customer who missed their coach

Specific Needs

Some customers have special needs. It may be because of a disability. They may need help to an easy access room or a wheelchair to take them to and from their transport. They may need an induction loop to help them hear in public areas, or an escort because they are partially sighted. They might have a dietary issue.

Products and Services

- Make sure you know what products and services your organisation offers and what the benefits of them are.
- Learn about your competitors' products and services so that they can emphasise to your customers what your organisation offers that your competitors don't.
- The customer expects the product or service they purchased delivers what your organised promised.
- Remember your 3P's (Product, Process and Personal Behaviour)
- It is not just about the flight and hotel that is booked, it is about the personal service you're providing. Are you knowledgeable, friendly and responding appropriately to what they have to say?

Assistance

People might require assistance with different things such as... (-)

- Baggage in their holiday destination
- Elderly customers climbing stairs and many more

Security

Bag checks are now more prominent than ever before due to recent terrorist activities. There is a increase in CCTV, security guards and body and baggage searches. If you are working in the industry, we need to be extra vigilant and reporting anything suspicious

Accurate Information

Customers expect accurate information. They need to know that the product/ service meets their needs and how. Examples might be...

Can you give me directions to...? At what time is the next show starting?

What is the weather forecast for this afternoon?

Needs of different types of Customer

Special Requests

Special requests may also increase a customers enjoyment e.g. a bottle of champagne in a bridal suite for a honeymoon couple or a birthday cake arranged for a child's birthday.

Health

The customers rely on you to be kept safe, secure and healthy whilst in your \Im care.

You need to alert customers to overseas health requirements. These are usually available from the FCO

SARS, Avian Flu, Swine Flu and Coronavirus has had restrictions on travel, each time this information was shared through the WHO (World Health Organisation)

Verbal Requests

- Verbal requests might be face to face
- They might also be over the telephone
- Staff must listen carefully to what the customer is saying or asking and be prepared to respond helpfully, knowledgeably and clearly.

Responding to Customer Needs

Written Requests

Much communication in Travel and Tourism is doing via email or websites. However some customers still prefer to communicate by letter and written booking form.

- The style and sometimes the information can differ depending on method of communication.
- Make sure that dates are correct
- Make sure you sign the letter off correctly e.g. yours sincerely, yours faithfully.

Recognising unstated needs

Sometimes a customer doesn't realise they have a need, so it is our job to identify those unstated needs. Some examples might include... A family with children booking a holiday at a travel agent might want a kids club option.

Cabin crew reminding someone to fasten their seatbelt

A cruise ship waiter noticing someone not eating their meal because they are in fact vegetarian and are too shy to request a change

Booking Forms

Many tour operators are now offering online booking forms. We must make sure that they are...

- Easy to read
- Ask all the questions which the organisation needs to be answered.
- Provide the information the customer needs
- Is clear and unambiguous

Exceeding Expectations

- Anticipate the customers needs before they ask for it.
- Personalise the experience for the customer, get to know them
- Solve problems imaginatively.
- Think of the halo effect, you might bend down to talk to a child, so that they can be at your eye level. You might ask them the name of the toy they're holding. The child will enjoy this experience and other people will be impressed by what you are doing.

Customer service Excellent

Meeting Expectations

- Your customer has been convinced to buy your product or service.
- You have given them expectations of what that product or service will provide.
- They will also have expectations based on previous customer service experiences and what their culture and ethnicity expects.
- Customers expect the information you provide them to be timely and accurate
- · They expect their journey to be punctual.
- They expect their room to be clean
- They expect their family to be looked after (if applicable)
